Northeast Nebraska Behavioral Health Network is very excited to announce two unique training opportunities aimed to help build the behavioral health workforce of northeast and northcentral Nebraska. Each option will help current behavioral health professionals expand their scope of practice to include the supervision of clinical interns.

OPTION 1: For those seasoned BH professionals who wish to share their professional knowledge with students Site Supervision Training for Behavioral Health Professionals consists of two 2-hour trainings via Zoom on January 12 and January 19 from 11:30 – 1:30 CST

Session 1: Supervision Models and Role

Session 1 addresses current supervision models and theory needed to provide high quality supervision within the behavioral health profession. The Session begins with a pre-test to gauge current knowledge and to inform the two sessions. Participants will interact didactically on the following topics to build a foundation for Session 2:

- Supervision models and theory
- Telesupervision considerations
- Student supervision roles
- Supervisor supervision roles
- Develop a quality supervision agreement and informed consent
- Brief homework tasks to review in Session 2

Session 2: Supervision Model Application

Session 2 focuses on practical application and techniques for material learned in Session 1. Participants will complete the following:

- Review of their self-developed supervision agreement and informed consent
- Review of case studies in small groups
- Application of Telesupervision practice tips
- Role play supervisor-supervisee interactions.

Four hours of continuing education will be awarded to participants that complete both Session 1 and Session 2. Employers can schedule group training by contacting NNBHN at 402.644.7285 or info@nnbhn.org
Individual registration can be found here: Supervision Training 4 hour course

This training is prepared and presented by Cody Dickson, PhD, LPC-S, LMHP (NE), NCC, ACS, BC-TMH <https://bit.ly/3yx9vN3> and Michelle Colarusso, PhD, LPC(PA), ACS, BC-TMH <https://bit.ly/31VTuVb>

Dr. Dickson is currently an Associate Professor and Director of Clinical Training at The Chicago School of Professional Psychology in the Counselor Education Department – On-line. His role includes managing the masters and doctorate level field placement and supervision as well as coordinating licensure placement and licensure testing. He provides supervision to students, engages with site supervisors, and oversees university supervisors across the United States and several international locations.

Dr. Colarusso is currently an Assistant Professor and Assistant Director of Clinical Training at The Chicago School of Psychology in the Counselor Education Department On-Line. Her main role is in fieldwork, working with students in their last year of the program working towards graduation. She provides supervision to students, engages with site supervisors, and University Supervisors as well.

OPTION 2: For behavioral health professionals seeking post-graduate training. NNBHN is pleased to offer financial support for a graduate credit opportunity at Wayne State College
CSL 696: Special Course: Supervision Foundations in Counseling.

This 1 credit self-paced course begins January 10, 2022 and must be completed by June 3, 2022. This course is on-line and contains all necessary materials (no textbook required). Education support will be provided for up to 7 individuals who, with the support of their employer, are committed to completing the course and providing site supervision to a minimum of 2 behavioral health students within the next 24 months. Instructors for this Course are Alison Boughn, PhD and Jeff Peterson, PhD, faculty at Wayne State College.

This course is a brief introduction to counseling supervision as a foundation in the counseling profession. Students learn about common supervision theories and models, the unique dynamics of a supervisory relationship with students, the supervisee evaluation process, how to incorporate a culturally informed approach to counseling supervision, as well as ethical and legal issues to consider when taking on a supervisee. The course may take up to 45 hours to complete over a 16-week period (approximately 3 hours per week) or less depending on participant/student time commitment available.

Dr. Jeff Peterson is an assistant professor at Wayne State College in the counseling department. His clinical specialization is working with LGBTQIA+ individuals, couples, families, and polyamory relationships. Dr. Peterson teaches courses in internship, group counseling, multicultural counseling, techniques and strategies, and diverse families and relationships. Dr. Peterson continues to be a national presenter for PESI and Good Therapy.

Dr. Alison Boughn is the counseling department chair at Wayne State College and an assistant professor. Her clinical specialization is working with children who have experienced trauma. Dr. Boughn teaches courses in assessment, internship, practicum, human development, career development, group counseling, and counseling children. She works closely with the field placement office and off-campus supervisors for student placements.
